

Vote for Hubert D. Stephens for United States Senator. He is the Farmer's friend, laborer's advocate and the people's ally. He is the same horse sense man at Washington City that he is at home. Common sense, honesty and true religion is his guide in every act. His 10 years' of service in the lower house of Congress especially qualify him for the duties of Senator at this time.

TATE COUNTY MAN TELLS WHAT WOMEN WILL DO

Knows, He Says, That Women Voters Remember What Vardaman Said About Roosevelt's Mother. Recalls Vardaman's Ripping The Baptist Preacher Up The Back.

Coldwater, Miss., July 25, 1922.
Editor Grenada Sentinel:

I shall appreciate it if you will allow me space in your valuable paper for a few observations regarding one phase of the senatorial campaign in Mississippi—the woman vote.

Ex-Senator Vardaman in his Weekly makes the silly charge that supporters of Hubert D. Stephens "are now and have been for the past several months, strenuously engaged in the effort to induce the ladies living in the towns of Mississippi to register and vote in the August primary. On the other hand, they have done everything to persuade the ladies living in the country not to register and vote. Some of our friends are satisfied that men are traveling over the state for the purpose of distributing this kind of propaganda."

Any one who is familiar with the character and methods of the former Senator knows that there is not the least shred of fact on which to base that ridiculous charge, and that it is simply the old threadbare appeal to the prejudice of the people living in the country. But it will not work any more, the country people have waked up at last.

The thing that is troubling the ex-Senator and his friends is the fact that a vast majority of the women in both town and country are and have always been against him and his methods, and it was a death blow to him politically when the women of Mississippi were given the ballot.

Women are inherently deeply religious and more reverent than men. That being true, and no one will question it, how can a man who has employed such language as he has so frequently on the stump and in his papers expect to be favored with their votes? For the same reason that practically every minister of the gospel in Mississippi and an overwhelming percentage of church people of every denomination have been opposed to him politically the women voters are going to line up against him on August 15th "almost to a man."

Little did the ex-Senator think that the women would ever have the ballot when he said of the late Theodore Roosevelt, "It is said that men follow the bent of their genius, that parental influences are often potent in shaping thoughts and ideas of after life. Probably old lady Roosevelt during the period of gestation was frightened by a dog and that fact may account for the qualities of the male pup which are so prominent in Teddy. I would not do either an injustice, but I am disposed to apologize to the dog for mentioning it."

And I doubt if he ever dreamed that the good Christian women of Mississippi would some day have an opportunity to register their indignation at the ballot box, when he said of Dr. Bailey, editor of the Baptist Record at that time: "This strange mingling of pretended piety and pious malevolence of the stupid parson and the unscrupulous politician of unfathomable ignorance and assassin's wisdom, or the dirty tool in the dirtier hands of the still dirtier manipulator, and over and above all, as high as the sparkling pleads hang above the groveling earth, the cheap pusillanimous qualities of this Christ discrediting, real eighteen carat fraud . . . but for one of these little nubbinstud, self-sanctified theological runts of the type who edits the Baptist, I have not the language to express the depth of my commiseration and contempt."

The leopard cannot change its spots, nor can Vardaman change his style or the real promptings of his heart. Every man of prominence who has opposed him, practically every leader of the Democratic party in the nation today and especially the invalid ex-President Woodrow Wilson,

GIVES MIGHTY GOOD REASON FOR SUPPRESSING VARDAMAN

Poplarville Free Press Shows That In One Act Alone Vardaman Has Cost Mississippi Millions of Dollars.

One day recently a Mississippian took a party of friends on a sight-seeing trip to Bogalusa. It was his first trip to that progressive city and he returned with glowing descriptions of the city and its hospitable people and the spirit of co-operation which permeates the very air. The gentleman in question was shown through the marvelous plant of the Great Southern Lumber Company with its hundreds of employees, its huge pay roll, and its efficient organization. He asked the guide why the plant had been located at Bogalusa, and the guide told him that Mr. Vardaman, while governor of Mississippi, had sponsored a law which made it impossible for a corporation of this magnitude to locate within the State of Mississippi, so the general plan to locate the plant in Lawrence County, Mississippi, had to be abandoned and—Bogalusa is the result.

"If I had been for Vardaman this morning," said the Mississippian "this one example of narrow minded bigotry and prejudice would be enough to make me vote against him for any public office." The loss of the Great Southern Lumber Company to Mississippi means more money lost in legitimate taxes than Vardaman ever saved the State. The fact is if Vardaman ever saved anything to Mississippi, it isn't in the record. At the same time that the state lost the big mill, a host of Mississippi people actually moved into Louisiana to get employment with this progressive, public spirited business enterprise.

Mississippi can never progress in constructive upbuilding as long as her people elect men to office who have no ideals and whose only purpose is to exploit the State and its interests to their own personal advancement and aggrandizement. Vardaman and Russell and their satellites are exactly this type. We must clean house or suffer continued loss in prestige, decrease in population, and increase in taxation. We predict that the house cleaning will begin August 15th and that it will be thorough and complete. The first essential is to eliminate Vardaman; after him the smaller demagogues will fall away from the body politic like untimely leaves.—Poplarville Free Press.

STEPHENS FRIEND TO ORGANIZED LABOR IS CONDUCTOR'S OPINION

B. B. Davis, for nearly 20 years, a conductor on the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad, is an enthusiastic supporter of Hubert D. Stephens for the Senate. He is making his home in Jackson, Tenn., at present. He is a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, and ex-chairman of the conductors' legislative committee of the State of Mississippi.

Mr. Davis, who lived in New Albany 15 years, has the following to say of his fellow-townsmen: "I lived across the street from Hubert Stephens for 15 years, and know him to be a straight, clean, upright gentleman in every respect. Nobody in his home town can or will say a thing against his character or standing as a man."

"When I was a member of the conductors' legislative committee during the time when the Esch-Cummins bill was up for consideration I spent some 30 days in Washington working against this bill. I sat in the gallery of the house of representatives, and personally saw Hubert D. Stephens vote against that bill."

"I have a copy of the Congressional Record showing his vote, and emphatically deny the false rumor being spread across this State that Stephens is an enemy to organized labor. I know to the contrary. He is a man who is not influenced by any party, clique or faction, and I know that when he considers a measure as the representative of the people he considers it as it is brought before him, according to his high Christian sense of right and wrong, and people can pin their faith to him as one who will represent them fairly and honestly from start to finish."

"It is my firm and positive conviction that the destinies of organized labor in America will be safer in Mr. Stephens' hands than of one who I consider, with Woodrow Wilson, unfit to trust or to have confidence in."

have come in for bitter, and oftentimes vile, abuse at his hands.

Yes, the women are against him, forever against him, and nothing he can now do or say will alter that fact for—

"The moving finger writes
And having writ, moves on;
Nor all your piety nor wit
Can change a single word of it."

Very truly yours,
M. A. McKinnon,

THE SENATORIAL HORSE RACE

Entries:—

The Maiden (Miss Belle Kearney).
Old Hasbeen (Jas. K. Vardaman).
The Winner (Hubert D. Stephens).

"Line up your mounts," the Starter cried, "the track is lightning fast. No time for plotting now," he said, "the time for that is past, Being Maiden's 'first time out,' she now will take the rail, While Hasbeen gets the second place, in which his ship is to sail, Winner draws the outside post, he'll run in any place, He wins in every race he runs, no matter what the pace."

Out stepped the Maiden, feet well shod, her coat all sleek and fine, Her mane well combed and ribbon tied, if nervous gave no sign, Her jockey dressed in snowy white, all edged and trimmed with lace, A jaunty cap upon her head, while smiles adorned her face, No doubt she meant to ride a race, no doubt the Maid would run, Whoever won would have to fly before THIS RACE WAS WON.

Then came Old Hasbeen head in air, with mane down to his knees, His coat which once was milky white, was bitten now by fleas, He came a snorting down the track, as if he owned the world, His tail a flowing far behind, perfumed and much becurled, He looked on Maiden with disdain, gave one of hate to Winner, He acted out just what he was—and old and hardened sinner.

Now came The Winner, stepping strong, his jockey sitting light, Was dressed unlike the other two, his colors black as night, His reins were flapping as he walked and calm and cool his manner, For this was now his seventh race, to run and win the banner, He gave the Maid a kindly look, to Hasbeen gave a smile, He was primed for any length, from furlong to a mile.

They all got off to an even start, but Maiden took the lead, The veteran Hasbeen at her side, was using all his speed, The foam was white around their bits, their nostrils widely flared, As on they flew towards the goal, to "ease up" neither dared, While Winner loitered 'long behind, a great machine well oiled, Gently fighting for his lead, while on the leaders toiled."

When "The Quarter" had been reached, Old Hasbeen and the Maiden Were still a running neck and neck, but both were heavy laden With more than they could carry well, for each was tiring fast, And all their backers plainly saw, that neither one could last To run the mile that had been set, to win the Senate Pot, The distance named was much too long, the pace was much too hot.

The half mile post came into view, The Maiden still was leading, As Hasbeen's jockey plied the whip and with his mount was pleading, For now The Winner, coming fast, was running true to name, The Maiden's sides were flecked with foam, but was dying game, From Old Hasbeen's reeking sides, the sweat poured down a flood, And as he made one last long try, his nostrils spouted blood.

"Three Quarter Post" now came in view, The Winner took command, His jockey turned his head aloof as they approached "The Stand", And Still Old Hasbeen struggled on, while staggered at his side, The gallant Maid was slowing down and could no longer hide That she was done, the race was lost as every one could see, But she had made a gamely fight, as all could well agree.

The Winner flashed beneath the wire, some twenty lengths ahead, Pronounced by everyone who saw, a race horse born and bred, But Maiden got her meed of cheers, for this her "first time out," She ran the Winner quite a race and beat that hoary scout, Whose boasts had filled the ears of men, for more than 20 years, Whose sins had caused the best to cuss, the rest reduced to tears.

Reasons and excuses offered by the jockeys—

Said jockey Miz. Stark,
"We had quite a lark,
But I knew the Maiden would lose,
But we beat that old scout,
When first we were out,
And gave The Winner a cruise."

Said young Mr. Fly,
"I didn't much try,
I've ridden some winners before,
I'm sorry for The Maiden,
She was too heavy laden,
Old Hasbeen will run nevermore."

Said "Judge" Louis Burch,
"I was left in the lurch;
My mount went lame at the Quarter,
I rode him to win,
I whip'd him like sin,
He can't win nothin' when he oughter."

I thank you,
M. A. McKinnon.

MAL-ODOROUS VARDAMAN OF- FENSIVE TO N. C. DEMOCRATS.

Ex-President Wilson, with a command of language rich and forceful, has nevertheless no soft words for those who have opposed his policies. Sometimes Mr. Wilson is harsh in his attitude towards those who have stood by him in victory or defeat. But his unhesitating condemnation of Mr. Vardaman will receive the unqualified approval of the great majority outside Mississippi it ought to be endorsed by Democrats who are now to select John Sharp Williams successor in the United States Senate. Aside from his war record, Vardaman belongs to that swashbuckling type of Southern politicians which is now only too well represented in the Senate by Mr. Watson, of Georgia.

If Vardaman had never sought to obstruct his Government in time of war, he would still be poor timber for Senator. But surely Mississippians will not honor with the Senatorial toga a man whose course in the war differs in ways hard to define from the activities of others who were jailed for acts bordering on sedition. Mr. Wilson's "impression" of Vardaman accurately sums up the Vardaman characteristics as they have manifested themselves in his reactions to great national and State politics: "I think that he is thoroughly false and untrustworthy, and that it would be a great detriment to Mississippi and the nation should he be returned to the Senate." GRENADA COUNTY YOUTH BOOSTS HUBERT STEPHENS Writes From Washington. Not "Even One Person to Speak Favorably of Vardaman." Commends Sisson's Labors at Washington.

The Sentinel editor received a few days ago a letter from his young friend, Mr. Milton Williams, private secretary to Congressman Driver, of Arkansas. Mr. Williams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Van W. Williams, of Grenada. He is an intelligent, aspiring young man and his home friends join his parents and others in hoping that the greatest success may come to him.

His letter was not written for publication. But what he states of the feeling among Democrats and others at Washington City about Vardaman comes from the heart of a youth and is not embellished to suit any particular set of men.

Mr. Williams also pays a handsome compliment to the services of Hon. T. U. Sisson, Grenada Countians, read what this home boy tells you of how the men who gather from all over the country at the Nation's Capitol think of certain Mississippians sent to Washington City:

"I presume that the political campaign is warming up in Mississippi, and especially am I more convinced in this belief when I am just informed by Miss Cox, Congressman Collier's Secretary, that Mr. Collier had opposition, and that his opponent waited until last Saturday before he filed his campaign pledge. The Representatives from Mississippi, as well as both Senators, are men of influence and affairs in the Capitol City, and I am thankful that we have no Congressman here such as the Oklahoma Congressman, Emanuel Herrick, who has not only been the laughing stock of his district but of the City as a whole. However, I do not believe that he will be listed as one of the members in the next Congress. And in fact, it has been admitted by a large number of the Republican Congressmen that they will possibly be defeated in the next election and may have to retire either on the account of bad health or on account of their business affairs at home which need their personal attention. Mr. Scott and Mr. Clouse, of Tennessee, are two of our friends, the enemy, who will no doubt be listed as among the missing when the sixty-eighth Congress convenes."

"I trust that Mr. Sisson will win the nomination for Congress, for he is a man of the highest integrity and of great educational and legislative abilities, and will probably be Chairman of the Appropriations Committee when the minority party is again in power, and from the present outlook it seems that the Democrats are coming back as fast, if not faster, than the Republicans came in power last fall a year ago."

"I also trust that the Senatorial toga for Mississippi will be awarded to our friend, Mr. Stephens, for he is a man who will not be led by his own personal ambitions and desires, and will not only be a credit to the people of our state but to the nation as a whole. Since I have been here I have not even heard one person speak favorably of Vardaman, and they regard him as a machine politician who is lead to legislate not for the good of his own people and the people of the nation, but for his personal objections. However, I do not believe that he is going to figure in the race any more than just being a candidate, but we should be alert and watch every door in order to see that he does not enter again in the halls of the Senate to demoralize the friendly and high regard in which our state is viewed."

MR. AND MRS. WOODS CELE- BRATE 57TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Woods in the Chapel Hill neighborhood celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary on Thursday, last, August 3. They had with them their five living children: Mrs. E. L. James, Mrs. J. L. Hayes, of Iverness, Mrs. W. C. Hill, of Drew, and Messrs. J. A. and N. H. Wood, the latter being from Greenwood where he makes his home and from whence he travels in government work.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods re among the best and most substantial citizens of Grenada County, and out of their home has come nothing but good for the best in the citizenship of the country. Faithful and untiring in their devotion and loyalty to the church; living the life that shows that they do not believe that there can be a separation from some branch of the Christian church and properly meet the obligations of citizenship, they have been as a light set upon the hill.

Just somehow there is a healthy freedom and strictness of simplicity in such homes as this which unfortunately seems to be growing fewer and fewer in number. It must indeed have been a gathering tempered with thankfulness to the Giver of every good thing when this father and this mother gathered their brood about them to honor the day that they, under the providence of God, bound their hearts together.

Their many friends felicitate with them and join their loved ones in wishing them yet many more days of contentment and domestic joy.

Mr. J. M. Clark, Oakland, Miss.
Hon. J. T. Thomas, Grenada, Miss.

GLAD THERE IS TO BE STRICT PRIMARY TESTS.

When you hear anyone complaining about the ruling of the State Democratic Executive Committee as to who is entitled to vote, you may rest assured that such person has not been loyal to the Democratic party. Otherwise he has no "kick" coming. Of course the person claiming to be a democrat and yet voted the Republican ticket last time won't like the ruling—which is nothing more than the law—for it would bar him from voting. But in that case, he is not entitled to vote. A man can't be a democrat one election and a republican the next, any more than he can serve God and Mammon at the same time. It is high time that the law in reference to democratic primaries be enforced, and all really loyal democrats want to see it enforced.—Newton Record.

It is pleasing to know that the Democratic State Executive Committee has ordered the party lines drawn taut this year; that Socialists and men who are Democrats in state and county only, but who vote the national Republican ticket, must go all the way with the party. If they are of the Democratic household of faith let them be so and willing to show their colors on all occasions. This is the order of the Democratic State Committee.—Hattiesburg American.

In this issue we publish the resolutions adopted by the Democratic State Executive Committee at its meeting in Jackson on the first instant. The Committee's apparent desire to make next month's Democratic primary strictly Democratic is a laudable one, and its efforts to do so merit the zealous support of all true Democrats in the state. It cannot be denied that hitherto our party primaries have been largely farcical because of the participation therein of men who were not Democrats. Supposedly honorable and upright men seem to think it no harm to participate in the nomination of the candidates of a party with which they are not in accord; yet when so participating they deliberately act a lie, and that, after all is said, is about as culpable as uttering a lie.—Madison County Herald.

SIZZLING HOT IN THE FOURTH.

Over in the 4th District congressional politics are sizzling. Politics very often sizzle in that section. They almost get to the "frying" point sometimes.

Congressman Sisson, with fourteen years of service, desires re-election in August. He has three opponents, among whom Hon. Jeff Busby, of Houston seems to be the most formidable. Sisson's friends over there believe he will be re-elected. Of course, Busby's admirers think differently.

Sisson is at home now, making a whirlwind campaign during congress recess. Sisson is a hard campaigner. He has few equals along that line. He is a hard worker in Congress—a tireless worker. Doubtless, he has made mistakes there. We believe he has made a few, but he stood corrected as soon as he found his errors.

Sisson has always had opposition, and it may be well for the district that he has. Probably he works harder and more faithfully with than without opposition. Some men do. Busby ran against him two years ago, and came near defeating him. Among other things, he fought Sisson then and is fighting him now on the later's tenure of office. He argues "rotation," and declares that Sisson favored it when he first offered for congress fourteen years ago. Maybe he did. Perhaps, he has discovered his mistake and now believes the longer a good capable man serves in Congress, the more valuable service he can render his people.

But, anyway, what does Sisson's opinion of "rotation" fourteen years ago, or the opinion of either today, have to do with it? The office to give, belongs to neither of them, but to the people. If they believe that Sisson, because of his long experience and familiarity with affairs at Washington, can serve them in a safer and abler manner, then they should return him to Congress. If, on the contrary, Sisson's service is not satisfactory, if he hasn't done his duty as a public servant, then his ablest opponent should be sent in his stead.

The district's interest is the paramount issue, and in nowise should be sacrificed for a mere whim of "rotation." It is the people's office and Busby's or Sisson's personal interests cut no figure, whatever. The vital question is who can and will best work and best serve.—Ruleville Record.

The Record is exactly right when it says that "what does Sisson's opinion of 'rotation' 14 years ago or the opinion of either have to do with it?" The office to give belongs to neither of them but to the people.

The people have kept Mr. Sisson in Congress and Mr. Busby should blame them and not Mr. Sisson for staying there.

The people now have Mr. Sisson on trial on his record. If he has not served their interest he should stay at home. If he has he should be returned. Any unbiased man or woman will admit that Mr. Sisson is an untiring worker, a man that the big interest cannot put a ring in his nose, but is a leader that commands respect of all classes because they know that he is fair and just and the people's interest is going to be served by him.

His long training in Congress positions him to render a greater service to his district and nation in the future than in the past.

All he asks is to be tried on the service he has rendered and not on few insignificant charges jumped up by his opponents who want to get in instead of staying out.—Winona Times.

IF TOO ILL MENTALLY AND PHYSICALLY.

The date for the senatorial primary is rapidly drawing near, and still Senator Vardaman continues to draw his cloak about his shoulders and seek solace, retirement and rest without presenting his claims to the voters of Mississippi.

Major Burch is about the only spokesman for the former Senator, though a number of apologists have appeared here and there to plead the cause of the ex-Senator who would come back. Mr. Vardaman is ill, the claim is made, and right now cannot personally prosecute his campaign. He must be represented by proxy in this campaign, and he is thus relieved from the disagreeable ordeal of answering some very confusing questions as to his stewardship during his past tenure of the office to which he again aspires.

Similar charges cannot be made against either of his opponents. Miss Kearney has been very active in presenting her claims before the people, and she is yet currying the State in the interest of her candidacy. Mr. Stephens is equally as active, and this week he has invaded the south half of the State and will meet the voters face to face.

If Major Vardaman is too ill to enter the fray, then he is too ill to serve the people in the Senate. Whispers have been heard from time to time that he is seriously ill with a malady that baffles cure. Only his intimates know the truth or falsity of this assertion, but there must be something in it when he fails to appear before the people to plead his cause. Just the other day it was stated that he had gone to the Ozark Mountains to recuperate. It is but a brief time ago that he made a similar trip to some other place, and it is passing strange that these health-seeking trips should follow in such close succession.

Mississippi needs the services of a man of physical vigor to represent her in the upper house of Congress. If Major Vardaman is physically unfit to stand the strain of a few weeks of vigorous campaign, then he is unfit to stand the long and hard grind of a congressional session. He certainly cannot have the interests of the people of the State at heart if he wishes to round out his career in the Senate as a physical weakling, unable to perform the duties required of him and drawing a salary which he is not truly earning.

Major Vardaman surely is well enough acquainted with the people of the State to realize that he cannot carry on a campaign for office by proxy. He must not entertain the idea that because he is well known to every voter it is not necessary for him to appear before them and explain his position on issues of the day. It is folly for him to shift the burden from his shoulders to those of his representatives and apologists. If he has any explanations to offer, any apologies to make to the people of Mississippi for his past conduct as their representative in the Senate, let him come out in the open and make such statements without using his present subterfuge. If he is physically fit to hold the position of Senator, he should refute the rumors circulating over the State to his own detriment; and if, on the other hand, he is wavering in health and mental vigor, he ought to be man enough to acknowledge to the people that his condition does not warrant him in assuming the burdens of the office and withdraw from the race.

Campaigning by proxy and at the same time keeping something under cover is not particularly appealing to the Democrats of Mississippi. Let Major Vardaman state his case or give way to candidates who can and will represent themselves before the people.—Clarksdale Register.

NEGROES ON TROY FARM GIVEN BARBECUE

Roland W. Jones Compliments His Negro Tenants With Big Dinner.

On Friday of last week, Mr. Roland W. Jones gave his negro tenants a barbecue. They were allowed to invite their colored friends and neighbors from other places and as a result about five hundred negroes gathered for the day.

Good order prevailed. The deportment reflected credit on the training of the negroes and showed that they had a very keen sense of appreciation of the courtesy extended them.

The Mt. Moriah Union Association was in session, and the dinner fitted in very happily with the church gathering and enabled the colored citizens to extend some extra courtesies to this, their church organization.

The dinner was a very thoughtful thing upon the part of Mr. Jones, who is one of the level headed, splendid young business men of the County. With Mr. Jones, as with the average white land owner, there is a feeling that the negroes on his farm are sorts of wards and he feels more than a mere business interest in them. Happily this sort of a sympathetic interest and feeling is genuinely reciprocated by the good, trustworthy negroes.

Mr. John Borden, the owner of Glenwild, was expected to come all the way from Chicago to be present at a "nigger" barbecue, but was unavoidably detained. Of course Mr. Borden has had an opportunity to observe the negro from various angles since he became the owner of Glenwild, but somehow he wanted to see several hundred gathered at a dinner. Believing that a picture of a negro barbecue would interest some of his northern friends and perhaps go towards bringing about a better understanding in the north of the relations between the two races here, Mr. Borden engaged Mr. R. F. Hilderbrand, a celebrated photographer and view-taker of Chicago, to be on hand and take pictures of the barbecue. The photographer was also engaged to take some views at Glenwild.

Mr. Jones is to be commended and congratulated on having given the barbecue and, too, for having extended invitations to a number of his friends in Grenada and around to also share what was dispensed that day.

WINONA TAKES THREE IN A ROW

Winona has just simply walked away with Grenada this week, taking three games straight. The first one, in Grenada Monday, resulted in a score of 15 to 7 and was one of the longest games of the season. From the first inning the result was never in doubt. The heavy hitting visitors garnered 22 hits off of three pitchers. Batteries: for Winona, Johnson and Shannon; for Grenada, Magee, Sherron, Sweeney and Moore.

The second game, in Grenada Tuesday, resulting in a score of 8 to 4, was also Winona's party from the start. Jones pitched an excellent game, allowing only three hits. Poor support behind him account for Grenada's runs. Batteries: for Winona, Jones and Shannon; for Grenada, Bryant, Parmelee, Sweeney and Hathorn.

Wednesday afternoon, in Winona, Grenada fared no better losing the game by eleven tallies. The final score was 13 to 2. Lefty Taylor was on the mound for Minona and fanned 15 men. Batteries: for Winona, Taylor and Shannon and Armstrong; for Grenada, Lester and Bingham.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER SAYS "VARDAMAN'S UNFITNESS NEVER BEEN APPROACHED."

The following from an Independent newspaper shows how Vardaman impresses the citizenship of Philadelphia. And what is true of Philadelphia is largely true of every other section of the country:

It is reported from Mississippi that among the candidates for Senator John Sharp Williams' place will be ex-Senator James K. Vardaman, Hubert Stephens and Miss Belle Kearney a temperance lecturer. We do not know Mr. Stephens or Miss Kearney, but we are for either of them, or for anybody else in Mississippi. Mr. Vardaman is so well known that his equal in unfitness never has been approached in any of the other forty-seven, except possibly in Georgia, which elected Thomas E. Watson to the Senate.

Is there any real danger that those mouthings of hill-billy rhetoric, the throwing back of that cultivated name that Indian make-up, those malignant attempts to stir up hatred, those ignorant antagonisms to his own country, those uphodings of autocracy and stiflings of the oppressed are again to be enacted and shouted in the Senate God forbid. Give us Mr. Stephens or Miss Kearney or anybody else. We know nothing of them; but they may be better and they cannot be worse.

PROMINENT MAN TALKS TO FARMERS

Dr. D. C. Hull, President of A. & M. College Speaks On Organization of Farm Marketing Association.

On Thursday afternoon of last week, a meeting of a representative number of the farmers of Grenada County was held at the court house in Grenada for the purpose of hearing Dr. D. C. Hull, president of the A. & M. College on the organization of a Farm Marketing Association in this County.

Dr. Hull is a fluent talker and discussed farming conditions rather fully and endeavored to show what similar organizations had done for farmers raising other things. He referred to some length to the Long Staple Delta Cotton Association with headquarters at Greenwood, started more than a year ago and stated that the plan of that association was largely what the farmers who raise other classes of cotton must follow. He went over much, of course, with which every thinking farmer must be familiar in reference to the fact that one of the troubles with the farmer in selling his cotton is that it is dumped on the market too much in a lump—in about four months, he stated, practically 90 per cent of the cotton crop is sold. Dr. Hull urged that the farmers should do what other business men do, organize for business and in a business way. He said that when the farmers did that, they not only protected themselves but they made sure of the prosperity of every other business in this section.

County Farm Demonstrator White made a short talk expressing gratification at having Dr. Hull in the County to make the speech he did. Mr. White also stated that the initial work toward perfecting a cotton marketing association in the County was progressing satisfactorily. He stated that he had the names of a sufficient number already of the substantial cotton raisers of the County to give absolute assurance of success. The final plans will be completed early in October.

UNJUST ACCUSATION IS EXPOSED BY SULLENS

Jackson, Miss., July 28.—The following letter was received by the editor of the Daily News yesterday morning:

Wesson, Miss., July 25th, 1922.
Mr. Frederick Sullens,
Jackson, Miss.

Dear Sir:
I am informed that since your change of spiritual attitude you have also changed your attitude towards Mr. Vardaman and have privately stated you are going to vote for him. I wish to congratulate you on this very proper and commendable change of political creed, and in view of the fact that you have fought this noble man so long and so bitterly I think you ought to make a public declaration of your change and your intention concerning him. I have heard some say that if you should come out openly for him they would doubt your sincerity, but I don't feel that way. I for one am willing to receive you with open arms.

Yours truly,
HENRY L. MCGEEHEE.

THE ANSWER THERETO.

Here is the answer to the above communication:
Jackson, Miss., July 26th, 1922.
Mr. Henry L. McGehee,
Wesson, Mississippi.

Dear Sir:
You have been grossly misinformed. I have made no such statement, privately or publicly.

I am dignifying your letter with a reply only because it is evident that somebody has launched a flimsy political lie for the purpose of influencing votes in Vardaman's favor.

It may be difficult for you to understand why such should be the case, but a renewed faith in God is in no sense synonymous with a conversion to Vardamanism. They are as far apart as the Arctic and Antarctic poles.

I thoroughly agree with Woodrow Wilson, the greatest Democrat who ever lived, that Mr. Vardaman "is thoroughly false and untrustworthy," and go further by saying that he has been untrue to his country and a traitor to the principles of the Democratic party.

Because of his deplorable mental and physical condition which renders him utterly unfit for any form of service, Mr. Vardaman has my personal sympathy, but I am not yet ready to send a crazy man to the United States Senate. That body already contains enough men who are utterly devoid of logical mental processes. Like Vardaman, they ought to be in a sanitarium instead of the Senate.

I hope this a complete answer to your letter, and that you will not clutter up my mail with any more hypocritical twaddle.

Yours truly,
FREDERICK SULLENS.

THE BOLL WEEVIL MULTIPLYING FAST

Pest Increasing Its Activity. Army Worm Also Here. Even Grown Bolls are Being Punctured.

The optimistic feeling that has prevailed among farmers for the past thirty days, or more, about the cotton crop in spite of the boll weevil, is being dissipated because of the increased activities of the pest which the farmers from nearly every locality report.

Quite a number report that in sections of cotton crops even grown bolls are being punctured. In the delta section where the arsenic poison has been used, satisfactory results are reported.

In addition to the weevil, the army worm has made its appearance in different sections of Grenada County. Of course the matter of what these two destroying agencies will do to the crop, can only be conjectured. It is hoped that at least the half of a normal crop will be made.

CASTEEL SAYS HE WOULD NEVER APPOINT RUSSELL TO OFFICE, IF IN POWER

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 3.—Lieutenant Governor H. H. Casteel today issued an emphatic denial of the charge said to have been made on the stump by Miss Belle Kearney, candidate for the United States Senate, that in event J. K. Vardaman should be elected to the Senate, and later found to be physically or mentally disqualified, that he will appoint Governor Lee M. Russell as senator, the governor resigning in order to make this possible.

"I have delayed making reply to this charge, hoping that Miss Kearney would realize the absurdity of the story and correct it herself," said Lieutenant Governor Casteel. "But, since she has not done so, I owe it both to my friends and myself to say that the story is absolutely untrue. I would not appoint Governor Russell to any office, if it were in my power to do so. If he should resign as governor thus making it necessary for me to assume that office, I would not appoint Governor Russell to the Senate, even if it would elevate me to the presidency of the United States."

"I do not know anything about Mr. Vardaman's mental or physical condition. My heart goes out in sympathy to any man who is afflicted in mind or body, and I sincerely hope that the reports about his bodily and mental infirmities are not true."

"But I do want to make it just as plain as I can possibly express it in the English language that I am not a party to any collusion regarding the senatorship. I have made no pledges of any character, and I certainly would not make a pledge having as its object the placing of Governor Russell in the Senate. Governor Russell knows full well that I did not support him for governor, and there is no bond of political sympathy between us."

THE POLITICAL PENITENTS LOOKING VERY MOURNFUL

Would Like to Take Part in the Primary on August 15th, But They Can't Do So—Judge Powell Makes Statement on Subject.

Jackson, Miss., July 15.—A large crop of political penitents is developing in Mississippi as a result of the ruling of the Democratic state executive committee that persons who voted against the Democratic nominees in the last Presidential election will not be allowed to participate in the party primary on August 15th. Some of these penitents are loudly proclaiming that they have thoroughly reformed; that they are sincerely sorry that they bolted the party, because of personal dislike of Woodrow Wilson, and other causes; and are anxious to be restored to full fellowship in Democracy.

"Repentance is always wholesome, and we are glad to hear it, but they will have a stay on the mourner's bench awhile," says Judge Robert Powell, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee.

"The state committee acted within its legal authority in requiring that bolters be barred from the August primary, and that Republicans and Socialists, who have freely participated in our party primaries in the past, also be prevented from taking part in the election."

"It is important, therefore, that county executive committees and election officers see that this rule is enforced, and that true-blue Democrats remain at the polls on election day to challenge all efforts at illegal voting."

"There was not a dissenting vote in the state committee when this rule was adopted, and there should be no dissent in the election precincts or any violation of the order. If the bolters and the Republicans and Socialists want to avoid unpleasantness they will stay away from the polls on August 15th."

"The security of the South rests on a solid Democratic front, and men who quit the ranks, even temporarily, must expect punishment of some form. The application of the rule is exceedingly simple. A man is either a Democrat, or he isn't, and that is all there is to it. Speaking as a veteran who has been through many hard-fought battles for the Democrats, I can find no excuse for any man not being a Democrat. If he wants to be something else, he of course, has a right to be, but he must not attempt to meddle in our family affairs. The proper place for Republicans and Socialists on election day will be at home. There will be no room for them in the election booths."

Miss Helene Wright returned home Wednesday at noon after an absence of two weeks which time was spent visiting Miss Louise Fields in Henning, Tenn., Miss Jack Tucker in Fulton, Ky., and Miss Minnie Bryant in Newbern, Tenn.

MABRY-WEST.

A wedding announcement that comes as a great surprise to their many friends in Grenada and elsewhere is that of Mr. Malcolm Harvey Mabry to Miss Mary Abbie West, which event was solemnized at Winona, Miss., on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 21st. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Tillery Lewis, pastor of the Methodist church at that place. Besides the contracting parties and one or two members of the pastor's family, the only person present was Miss Maud West, the sister of the bride.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. West and was born and reared in Grenada. She is a young woman of many unusual accomplishments, is practical and is thoroughly versed in knowledge of the household arts, all of which tend to better fit her for the duties she has assumed as wife and helpmeet.

Mr. Mabry has been stationed in Grenada perhaps a year in the employ of the State Plant Board and has won the confidence and esteem of all who have come to know him since his residence here. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mabry, of Dublin, one of the prominent families of Coahoma County.

The happy young couple decided to keep the news of their marriage a secret until the time Mr. Mabry secured his vacation, and they could leave on their bridal trip.

The Sentinel joins in extending congratulations.

On the afternoon of July 28, the bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Edna Mae Myers on College Avenue. Delightful music was furnished by Miss Katherine Lufkin at the piano and Miss Lucile Miers with the violin who accompanied Mrs. W. H. Thompson in the rendition of a beautiful song. A very humorous reading by Mrs. H. J. Guidry followed.

After the many pretty gifts had been presented and admired, delicious cake and sherbet were served to the guests.

RECEPTION AT TATUM HOME.

Mrs. Harry Bell and Miss Courtney Tatum gave a very delightful reception Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 in honor of their sister, Mrs. Albert Tatum, one of Grenada's recent brides.

The lovely Tatum home was beautifully decorated with gorgeous flowers, making the setting all one could desire for the happy function which was to introduce the new sister of the home to Grenada.

Mrs. G. S. Granberry greeted the guests at the door and led them to the punch bowl where this delicious refreshment was served by Misses Cora Lee Wilson and Elise Lockett. They were then taken in charge by Mrs. W. E. McCormick who presented them to the receiving line which was composed of the following:

Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Albert Tatum, Miss Courtney Tatum, Mrs. J. R. Fewell, of Charleston, Mrs. E. L. Bass, herself a bride of only a few weeks, Mrs. H. T. Rogers.

The guests were next led to the dining room by Mrs. Jay Gore and Mrs. McCormick where delicious ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. W. R. Todd and Miss Mary Knox, assisted by Mrs. Frank York and Misses Louise Perry, Francis McLeod and Heard Lawrence.

If the gracious and lovely honoree could have had any doubts about the cordiality of her welcome to the social life of Grenada, they were thrice removed by this happy gathering of friends and acquaintances.

SUBSTITUTES AND PROXIES.

Roscoe Conklin, former Senator from New York, was importuned during the presidential campaign of 1884 when Cleveland and Blaine were the candidates, to make a few speeches for Mr. Blaine. After appearing to think the matter over for a few moments he said:

"Gentlemen, tell your chairman that I am not engaged in the CRIMINAL practice."

No such scruples as prevented Conklin from defending Blaine actuates those CRIMINAL lawyers who are going over the state defending former Senator Vardaman. CRIMINAL lawyers they are and in the CRIMINAL practice they are still engaged. In this gang going over the State telling you and me how to vote there are said to be eight criminal lawyers and one Railroad attorney. Here in my county they have added to this number a rich banker from a neighboring county, this being the same man who made speeches for Vardaman four years ago and whose speeches made overwhelming majorities for Pat Harrison, wherever he spoke. This banker attempted to make the same speech as one of the criminal lawyers, but lost his cue, forgot his piece, like a boy at school, on Friday afternoon and finally got drowned in the lake of filth and venom that he had spewed up around himself while attempting to make his speech. This is about a fair sample of his speech:

"Vardaman is the biggest man in the WORLD. (D— old Wilson). "Vardaman got more money for the State during his six years in the Senate than all the other Senators Mississippi has had in the past forty five years. (To h—with old Wilson). "Vardaman never did a vain or foolish thing in all his life and Wilson never a wise or good thing in his. (Crucify old Wilson). "Vardaman together with Bob LaFollette, Hiram Johnson and France from Maryland were the biggest fish in the pond at Washington. (Wilson was a minnow). "Wilson went to Paris to have a gay time and had it. Danced all night and every night, was 63 years old, had a young wife and came home dragging one hind leg behind him. (Selah).

"Vardaman is in perfect health but don't want to come around singing his own praises and therefore sent me. I can tell it like it is. (Wilson is a liar by the clock.)"

For more than an hour this rich banker, representing the meek and lowly farmer carried on in about this strain. On the platform just behind him was a rich retired merchant and his father, mourning him as the nigger would say and in the next most prominent place was a specimen who looked as if he were a cross between a sea horse and an alligator and he too was "mourning" the speaker. Take it altogether, it was field day for the ignorant and the vicious. I venture to say this banker will never be called upon to speak in that place again. Personally I would like to contribute to his expenses in order to get him to make that same speech in every voting precinct in the state. If he did Vardaman would not carry a single county. If Vardaman were not as crazy as a bat he would call this fellow off.

The other, the great and adroit criminal lawyer made a much better case for Vardaman than the banker, his falsehoods were better sugar-coated, his case was more subtly stated, but false as hell nevertheless. This was one of his choicest ones: "Wilson when he came to Congress and asked for Forty Million Dollars had no idea nor intention of using the fleet of freight ships which he was going to build or buy in transporting cotton to market, his only idea being to send the manufactured products of Pennsylvania, New York and New England to the South America markets hoping to steal them away from the European Nations who were then engaged in war."

This in spite of the fact that Vardaman's friends had turned from him four years ago on this very issue, more than any other, and elected Harrison by such a big and brutal majority. "Lord, what fools we mortals be!" Or what fools he thinks we are.

Another was this: "Every man within the sound of my voice knew two years before the last state primary the tale that was afterwards told and published by Miss Birkhead and yet they elected Russell to the Governorship and Hubert Stephens voted and made speeches for him." This in spite of the fact that Stephens has denounced him as a liar to his face."

This choice band of angels are going over the State vilifying Wilson and praising Vardaman for one purpose and one only. They care not a d— for the welfare of the State, the people who inhabit it and not the least thing for Vardaman but are toiling, lying, sweating and stinking of their own selfish interests and have actually been parading this "old body of death" alias Vardaman, hoping to fool one more victory out of the people and that in the next election they will be in the line of succession. All there is to it.

SISSON'S INFLUENCE APPRECIATED BY AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

W. C. MARKHAM
LEGISLATIVE REPRESENTATIVE
WASHINGTON, D. C.
220 MONEY BUILDING

June 20, 1922.

Hon. Thomas U. Sisson,
House of Representatives,

My dear Mr. Sisson,

In behalf of the Highway Departments of the 48 States which I have the honor of representing, I wish to express our appreciation of the interest you took in the work of securing road legislation as conferred with the Senate Committee on the Post Office Bill, to which our legislation was attached by you. We appreciate very much your interest in the matter and wish to assure you that we will do everything we can to carry out your wishes in the matter of the legislation.

Sincerely yours,

W. C. Markham

Legislative Representative.

The above is a copy of a letter of appreciation from W. C. Markham, Legislative Representative of the American Association of State Highway Officials, of Mr. Sisson's work and influence in securing the $190,000,000 for good roads, of which Mississippi gets $3,000,000.00 and this District about $360,000.00. Mr. Sisson's are not promises of what he will try to do, if renominated, but what he is doing for your District and State. Promises of untried men are gambling risks. Results are what you want. Sisson is getting results. A vote for Sisson is not a vote for a promise but a vote for results.

Sisson Campaign Committee

Democrat or Republican?

"Wilson's administration will go down into history as the most infamous in the annals of the nation's life."—Vardaman's Weekly, December 11, 1919.

"The Republicans have elected an able and eminently respectable gentleman president pro tem. of the Senate—Mr. Cummins of Iowa."—Vardaman's Weekly, May 22, 1919.

"Now, I do not think that Penrose (Republican) will do any worse than Simmons (Democrat). And I think the plain man will have just about as much to hope for from Penrose's committee as it had from the committee dominated by the Democrats above mentioned."—Vardaman's Weekly, May 29, 1919.

"Frank O. Lowden, Governor of Illinois, a candidate for President of the United States, is the son of a blacksmith. In addition to that accomplishment, he is a sensible, virile man."—Vardaman's Weekly, December 25, 1919.

Note: Be it remembered that Lowden was eliminated from the race because of the disclosure regarding the boudoir fund expended in his behalf.

"Hon. Hiram Johnson is the best equipped man mentioned for the Republican nomination for President."—Vardaman's Weekly, March 11, 1920.

"Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan has been convicted of election frauds and fined $10,000 and two years in the Leavenworth Penitentiary. Whether it was the result of an awakening of the public conscience or the use of Ford's money that accomplished the conviction, I will not say, but I hope the former."—Vardaman's Weekly, March 25, 1920. Note: Newberry was the Republican candidate and Henry Ford the Democratic candidate. Newberry was tried before a Republican judge and a Republican jury and convicted, a decision of the supreme court alone saving him from paying the penalty.

"Mr. Ford does not know anything about the history of his own country or any other country. He is as ignorant as the average Mississippi cornfield negro, and I doubt if he knows from reading whether the Nazarene was crucified or killed by Colonel Lamar Fontaine in the Battle of the Wilderness."—Vardaman's Weekly, Jan. 5, 1921.

"A friend writes to me to know 'if you wish to attend the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco as a delegate?' I have had a number of inquiries of this character and to put the matter at rest and avoid answering so many letters, I desire to say that I do not think I could be of special service to my country at San Francisco."—Vardaman's Weekly, May 27, 1920.

"Let us meet the issue bravely, with the facts and arguments and not with abuse. The abuse of Harding and his colleagues will not avail anything. After four years of service with him in the United States Senate, I am convinced that he is a man of good purposes, upright and trustworthy. One of the unfortunate incidents of American politics is hate and adamsadversion rather than love and argument."—Vardaman's Weekly, June 17, 1920.

"Elsewhere in this edition of the Weekly will be found the inaugural address of President Harding. I have read the paper carefully and considered every sentence contained in it, together with the spirit manifested by it. To say it is an admirable address expresses my judgment mildly. . . . That he should have taken this course, one is not surprised who knows Harding and who is able to consider the immediate past. Mr. Harding has avoided the breakers upon which Wilson wrecked his craft. And it is well that he should do it. Another four years or eight years of Wilson's policies would have destroyed the republic and made paupers of the American masses. . . . The trouble with Wilson was the gratification of his own ambition rather than service to mankind. President Harding will do well to avoid the breakers that have wrecked and forced into moral bankruptcy his predecessor, and steer the good old ship of State into the halcyon harbor of constitutional government and universal right. . . . It is a great address and I suggest that the readers of Vardaman's Weekly cut it out and paste it in a scrap book, teach it to your children and your children's children until the national spirit expressed in it shall become an instinct of the race."—Vardaman's Weekly, March 10, 1921.

"There is nothing more fatiguing to me than to see a shallow brained deceitful man protesting his religious affiliations or political leanings for promotion of his own personal or political interests. It has for a long time been the custom of small corrupt politicians of the south to seldom refer to a republican administration except in words of condemnation and disapproval. Before the republicans had control of the government for ten days we find some of our contemptible little politicians, accidentally in authority, predicting all manner of disaster for the republican administration. And in some instances they are men who for eight years have been the pliant tool of Woodrow Wilson."—Vardaman's Weekly, March 24, 1921.

"I am sure General Wood will make a very excellent President of the University. He is the man who ought to have represented America in the world war, but Woodrow Wilson did not permit him to go because he was afraid that it might do Wood some good politically. The real cause of the failure to send Wood, it was thought by some, was his intimacy with the late President Roosevelt, whom Wilson characteristically hated."—Vardaman's Weekly, April 7, 1921. Note—General Wood was another leading candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency who was eliminated on account of the vast sums of money expended in an effort to buy the nomination.

"Senator Pomerene of Ohio has been shooting some pretty hot shot into Senator Newberry for the way Newberry got into the Senate. I do not know that Newberry has been charged with anything criminal in the use of his money, but he spent too much money to get his place."—Vardaman's Weekly, November 24, 1921.

"It seems now that the Senate of the United States has determined to vote upon the expulsion of Newberry in January because of his purchase of his seat in the Senate. I should like to see the custom of buying places in the Senate stopped. But I cannot understand why Newberry should be kicked out when there are others whose seat is said to be tainted with the same infamy."—Vardaman's Weekly, December 22, 1921.

"Someone refers to Gen. Wood as the 'Great Soldier from the West.' Gen. Wood is by far the ablest man in the army of these United States; he has been unfairly treated by President Wilson, but it so happened that he was born in Massachusetts and reared to manhood there."—Vardaman's Weekly, Jan. 29, 1920.

"I notice that certain democrats are kicking because President Harding has appointed a solid republican delegation on the Allied Debt Funding Commission. . . . I do not think any harm has resulted from the naming of a solid republican delegation."—Vardaman's Weekly, March 16, 1922.

"I do not think there is any question about the Honorable Jimmie Cox being brought to Jackson last week ostensibly to talk to the legislators, but in fact, for the purpose of calling the attention of the people of Mississippi to Woodrow Wilson and reviving the memory of the questionable part he took in the campaign for the Senate in 1918. The people of Mississippi understand very well that Cox was not sent here to teach democracy and the blessings which flow from democratic government. He is a very pleasant man but he knows very little about the science of democratic government and less about the history of his country. He was sent here by John Sharp Williams and Pat Harrison who hate Vardaman and will do everything in their power to defeat him in the August primary. Cox does not come as a leader, but rather as a tool of a political faction. . . . Vardaman's Weekly, April 6, 1922. Note: The Hon. James M. Cox came to Jackson in response to a practically unanimous invitation from the Mississippi Legislature the only votes in opposition to the invitation resolution being cast by followers of former Senator Vardaman. Until another National Convention names a candidate for President, Governor Cox will remain the acknowledged leader of the party.

"Elsewhere in this edition of The Weekly will be found a list of the political leaders who will go to the mat in the coming Senatorial elections next fall. Some of the best men in the service of the nation will go to their constituents for approval or disapproval. . . . I notice also the names of Johnson of California and France of Maryland. These two men ought to be re-elected. New of Indiana is a good man and will probably be re-elected. He is opposed by Ex-Senator Beveridge, the author of a good book, 'The Life of Chief Justice Marshall,' but I think he is a better writer than law maker. Robert M. LaFollette seems to be certain of re-election. Taking him all in all I rather think he is the equal if not the superior to any of his contemporaries in public life."—Vardaman's Weekly, April 27, 1922. Note: Here is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Mississippi openly advocating the election of Republican senators in preference to any candidates the Democratic party may name. Just five days, however, after Senator New went "to the mat" with Democratic (?) endorsement from Mississippi he was defeated for renomination by over 21,000 votes.

"If the time ever comes when he cannot find anything to commend in the last Democratic administration and Democratic leaders; when he can give praise only to Republicans and Republican policies and advocate the election of Republicans over any Democrats that might be named by their party. Hubert Stephens will not appear before a Mississippi audience as a candidate for a Democratic nomination."—Hubert D. Stephens in a speech at Winona, May 1, 1922.

DAINTY

"May, how in the world do you manage to bake such fine things—without ever a failure?"

"Oh, that's no trick at all! The flour itself is responsible—I use Valier's Dainty you know."

Economical in three distinct ways

UNUSUALLY fine, full-flavored baking is not the only advantage to expect of Valier's Dainty Flour. It is milled from only the creamiest white centers of choice, prime soft winter wheat.

Dainty never causes a failure. That's economy. No. 1. And because it is milled from such fine wheat, Dainty requires less lard. That's economy No. 2.

Dainty costs much less than it did last year—tho it still costs a few cents more than ordinary flour because of its high quality—that's economy No. 3. Try a sack of Dainty.
